

Weekly Global Economic Round-up

Prepared by the Economic Division at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade

Highlights:

- The Government have announced that it will apply 35 percent tariffs to all imports from Russia, and extend the existing export prohibitions to industrial products closely connected to strategic Russian industries. This is New Zealand's most significant economic response to the Russian invasion to date and will come into force on 25 April.
- Australia signed an historic trade agreement with India on 2 April, the Australia-India Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement (ECTA), a partial free trade agreement and an interim step towards a fuller Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement expected by the end of 2022. The ECTA is projected to double bilateral trade (currently close to NZD$30 billion annually).
- The Agreement will eliminate tariffs on approximately 85 percent of Australian goods exports to India at entry into force, growing to 90 percent after 10 years; and eliminate tariffs on 96 percent of Indian goods exports to Australia at entry into force. MFAT will be providing more detailed analysis of this agreement in the coming weeks.

Regional Updates

Domestic Updates:

- New Zealand remains at Red COVID-19 level setting. Hospitilisations have dropped in Auckland, but continue to plateau in the Canterbury, Waikato and Northland regions, hence the government's decision to remain at Red. The traffic light settings will be reviewed again on 14 April.
- New Zealand will release additional emergency oil stocks as part of an agreement by the 31 International Energy Agency (IEA) member countries to offset the loss of Russian oil exports. The size of the release will be disclosed this week. New Zealand released 369,000 barrels of oil last month as part of an initial collective action to release 60 million barrels held by IEA members.
- New Zealand has released its second tranche of sanctions under the Russia Sanctions Act 2022. This second tranche includes 36 economic elites and family members. To date we have sanctioned over 500 individuals, entities or assets under the Russia Sanctions Act.
- While, in general, New Zealand exporters to the United Kingdom (UK) and European Union (EU) are not directly impacted by Russia's invasion of Ukraine, they are indirectly impacted by higher input costs (energy, fuel, animal feed and fertiliser), international transport and supply chain disruptions, and highly changeable markets and trade patterns.

Australia and the Pacific:

- On 6 April Sāmoa relaxed restrictions on commerce and activity, moving from Alert Level 3 to Alert level 2. At Alert Level 2 vaccination certificates and masks are mandated in public, there are limitations on the size of gatherings, and government, business and civil society are be able to operate on limited hours.
- Australia has announced the appointment of Ms Harinder Sidhu as Australia's next High Commissioner to New Zealand. High Commissioner Sidhu was most recently Chief Operating Officer and Deputy Secretary of Australia's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade. She has previously served overseas as High Commissioner to India and in Moscow and Damascus.

Asia:

• The Upgrade to New Zealand's Free Trade Agreement (FTA) with China entered into force on 7 April 2022.-The Upgrade amends the 2008 FTA to modernise key aspects of the FTA including in areas of e-commerce, government procurement, environment and trade, and competition. It also eliminates additional tariffs on wood and paper – meaning tariffs will be eliminated on 99 percent of such exports – and reduces compliance measures for exporters.

Europe

- The European Central Bank maintains its 'hawkish' monetary policy stance while annual inflation rates rise to 7.5% across the Euro area (March 2022). Inflation rates in Germany and Spain have increased to 7.6% and 9.8% respectively. European industrial, transport, tourism and manufacturing sectors are being impacted by rising inflation on oil and gas, which will have flow on effects for consumers. Sectors might like to consider contingency planning and prepare for the likelihood of rate increases and a premature end to the asset purchase programmes from the European Central Bank.
- On 1 April Sweden removed its entry restrictions for individuals from all countries. Vaccination and test certificates are no longer required when entering Sweden.

Americas:

• 180 million barrels of oil will be released from the US strategic reserves, which will provide support until domestic production can increase. Brent crude oil prices responded to this announcement by falling to USD108 per barrel.
